Brookes Publishing Co, United States, 2005. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 226 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Reading storybooks with young children is one of the most important things adults can do to support early language and literacy skills. What other fun, engaging interaction can teach children so many critical concepts - including print awareness, vocabulary, grammar, sentence structure, and social and conversational skills - all at once? Making the most of shared reading is the goal of this practical guide, ideal for early childhood educators in preschool, Head Start, and child care programs. Step-by-step strategies help educators engage, respond to, and teach young children during storybook reading - information they can share with parents to continue the learning at home. Readers will discover how to: create a fun and enriching reading atmosphere; promote children s print awareness and phonological awareness; choose appropriate books and read with expression; work with children who have developmental delays and behavior challenges; motivate reluctant readers; work effectively with individual children and small groups; support parents in developing their children s language and literacy development; all of the suggested strategies can be adapted for use with any storybook, and many are vividly illustrated with sample scripts. And with the helpful appendices, teachers will have short summaries of strategies for easy reference, a reading log to give to parents, answers to parents frequently asked questions about reading at home, and a glossary of key terms. Filled with ready-to-use ideas, this guidebook has everything early childhood educators need to turn the fun of shared reading into a powerful learning experience.
