Bryce Cullen Publishing, United States, 2011. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .In Who Says It s Wrong?: Closing the Morality Gap in Public Education, former middle and high school principal Suzanne Nicastro describes the historic decline of character education in public schools, along with its sobering results. With the state of public schools a national concern, Nicastro, a 20-year veteran of public education, presents a provocative blueprint for addressing the problem. By painting an undeniable relationship between moral standards and academic learning, this book successfully argues that moral standards are necessary partners in the field of public education.
